

U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT
16 AUGUST 1982

ARTICLE APPEARED
ON PAGE 16

Washington Whispers.

Friends say White House Chief of Staff James Baker, who earlier wanted to be Attorney General, now talks of heading the Central Intelligence Agency should William Casey leave. Associates figure fellow adviser Edwin Meese would have the inside track if Atty. Gen. William French Smith leaves.